

Trees for a Cleaner Powers Lake

Have you heard? The City of Woodbury is working collaboratively with South Washington Watershed District and Washington Conservation District to reduce the amount of dirt and pollutants that run off into Powers Lake.

Your neighborhood was identified as an ideal location to plant 100-200 trees as part of a study to determine if trees can be a cost-effective tool to help clean up suburban lakes.

What can trees do for you?

- * Shade your house in the summer and block winter wind
- * Reduce your heating and cooling costs
- * Reduce stormwater runoff from your property
- * Attract birds and other wildlife to your yard

It is free and easy to get your trees.

Each homeowner in your portion of Fox Run neighborhood can get two to four mid-sized trees planted for free. We'll work with you to pick the best species for your property and we'll take care of the hard work of planting and staking them too. The trees will be planted in 2011.

Sign up now for trees!

We need at least 70 people in your neighborhood to sign up to plant trees. Contact us today to add your name to the list. If fewer than 70 people sign-up, project partners will select a different neighborhood.

For questions or to sign-up for trees, contact:

Wendy Griffin

651-275-1136 x.24

wendy.griffin@mnwcd.org

Photo on front: Powers Lake Recreational Trail

Trees for a Cleaner Powers Lake

Have you heard? The City of Woodbury is working collaboratively with South Washington Watershed District and Washington Conservation District to reduce the amount of dirt and pollutants that run off into Powers Lake.

Your neighborhood was identified as an ideal location to plant 100-200 trees as part of a study to determine if trees can be a cost-effective tool to help clean up suburban lakes.

What can trees do for you?

- * Shade your house in the summer and block winter wind
- * Reduce your heating and cooling costs
- * Reduce stormwater runoff from your property
- * Attract birds and other wildlife to your yard

It is free and easy to get your trees.

Each homeowner in your portion of Fox Run neighborhood can get two to four mid-sized trees planted for free. We'll work with you to pick the best species for your property and we'll take care of the hard work of planting and staking them too. The trees will be planted in 2011.

Sign up now for trees!

We need at least 70 people in your neighborhood to sign up to plant trees. Contact us today to add your name to the list. If fewer than 70 people sign-up, project partners will select a different neighborhood.

For questions or to sign-up for trees, contact:

Wendy Griffin

651-275-1136 x.24

wendy.griffin@mnwcd.org

Photo on front: Powers Lake Recreational Trail